Thank You to Our Exhibitors & Partners

To our sponsors, exhibitors, and volunteers,

We did it! NUSA 2024 was a success!

On behalf of our team North and East Lubbock Community Development, we extend a warm thank you for your generous support of Neighborhood USA 2024! I'm sure you know how much it means to our organization to collaborate with each of you. Without supporters like you, this event wouldn't be able to flourish.

Everyone at North and East Lubbock Community Development is grateful for your support because it allows the organization to give back to the community. We have a community outreach event planned for mid-June and an upcoming back to school event. We will be able to distribute food and school supplies to the residents in the community.

Thank you again for everything. Visit our website, www.nelcdc.org to learn about future events and more ways to get involved. You can also give us a call at 806.747.5937. You are now a part of North and East Lubbock Community Development family, so don't be shy!

Great things are always happening in Lubbock!

On behalf of the Lubbock City Council and the citizens of Lubbock, we cordially invite you to hold the 2024 Annual NUSA Conference in the Hub City. Backed by a tradition of proven hospitality and excellent facilities, Lubbock will be the perfect setting for your conference. It would be a privilege to be your host city, and we welcome this opportunity to provide you with a stimulating and productive atmosphere for your event.

Lubbock is proud of its history, heritage, and culture. We are the seventh most popular travel destination in Texas, and the latest figures show that over six and a half million visitors travel to our city each year. Lubbock has museums, wineries, art galleries, sporting events, recreational opportunities, golf, live music, great restaurants, retail shopping, and an average of 264 days of sunshine every year to enjoy these amenities. Lubbock has four excellent universities, including the Texas Tech Red Raiders, who provide an array of exciting local activities including Big 12 NCAA intercollegiate competition. Eighty percent of Texas grapes are grown around Lubbock, and the wine produced by our local English Newsom, Llano Estacado, Bolen, Pheasant Ridge, Burklee Hill and McPherson Wineries are among the finest in the nation. Buddy Holly is Lubbock's favorite son, and the Buddy Holly Center preserves the legacy of this legendary rock and roll pioneer while providing cultural programs and exhibitions for the public. The new Buddy Holly Hall of Performing Arts and Sciences provides visitors with weekly concerts and events in an exciting and unique atmosphere. We hope you visit Lubbock and have the opportunity to visit these, and many more of our places of interest that celebrate Lubbock's unique history and heritage.

Lubbock residents are among the friendliest in the world, and we are proud of our West Texas hospitality. We are committed to assisting you and ensuring that your event is a pleasurable and memorable occasion. It is our hope that you will give Lubbock your utmost consideration as you plan your next special event.

Sincerely,

Tray Payne Mayor

Mesage From The NUSA President

NUSA Members and Friends,

On behalf of the NUSA 2024 Board of Directors, we are excited and thankful to have you joining us at the Neighborhoods, USA Conference in Lubbock, Texas! Creating Neighborhood Connections!!! There is more power in a community united than in a community divided. This year's theme focuses on the positive influential impact when diverse communities unite and join as allies.

As you enjoy this year's conference, we hope that you take the opportunity to connect with other conference attendees and discuss your recent lived experiences from the past couple of years. The NUSA Annual Conference is a time for neighborhood leaders and supporters to reconnect and share stories, initiatives, and trends changing our neighborhoods.

I've had the pleasure of being a part of NUSA since 2017. As a board member I am honored to represent Neighborhoods across the US, and Bahamas. The board members have been hard at work in making sure the world knows about NUSA and the work you all are doing in your neighborhoods. If you are interested in joining this great board. You can find more information on running for the board or hosting a conference on our website nusa.org.

Additionally, we know that there's not enough time at the conference to boast about the fantastic things happening in your neighborhoods. If you'd like your neighborhood to be highlighted on our blog, please email nusastorytime@nusa.org with your story. As we continue to uplift our neighborhoods any information on initiatives that bring neighbors together and build up communities is valuable to your fellow NUSA members.

There's a lot of work that goes behind hosting a conference and thank you to Team Lubbock for organizing the workshops, tours, and hospitality. Lastly to the NUSA Board, sponsors, and partners who worked together to bring the conference to life I thank you.

Welcome to Lubbock, Texas!
Precious McKesson

Canyon Lakes:

The Canyon Lakes in Lubbock are a hidden gem within the city, offering scenic beauty and recreational opportunities. These lakes are a series of narrow bodies of water formed by small dams constructed by Lubbock.

They lie within Mackenzie Park and are part of the Yellow House Canyon system.

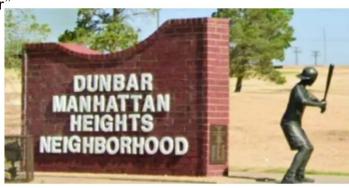

Approximately 55% of the city's public parkland is along the Canyon Lakes System, including Mackenzie Park. Lubbock aims to tap into this potential by connecting all the Canyon Lakes with pedestrian and bike trails. The city envisions creating one of Texas's larger linear trail systems, stretching from the top of the lake system down to Buffalo Springs Lake. Lubbock's vision includes enhancing existing areas like Mackenzie Park, the Buddy Holly Recreation Area, and spots around the Dunbar Historical Lake Park.

Dunbar-Manhattan Heights:

The old saying, "don't judge a book by it cover" is a true statement when referring to the Dunbar-Manhattan Heights neighborhood. These homes reveal their true character after living in them for multiple years. They contain a mixture of occupational and cultural groups. This neighborhood is unique and important in many ways. From the elementary and middle school that most neighborhood kids attended to the Ted Phea Boys and Girls Club where they engaged in afterschool activities, the locally owned restaurant and lounge and the historical baseball field where many grew up learning and watching this sport. We can't forget about the traditional Baptist churches in the community that have prayed for many of the citizens of Lubbock.

Estacado High School:

Estacado High School, located at 1504 E. Itasca Ave, opened in the fall of 1967. It was named for the early South Plains community of Estacado, which was located east of Lubbock on the Lubbock-Crosby county line. Estacado was composed primarily of Quaker settlers. These farmers traveled from Indiana and began arriving in the area in 1879. The community was credited with the first school, first church, first hotel, and first post office in the county. The name, Estacado, is derived from the Spaniards' designation of the area as the Llano Estacado, or Land of the Staked Plains.

The high school was designed for 1,600 students and total cost for the facility was $3.8 million. In addition to the traditional classrooms, the school originally contained a vocational wing with labs and shops for agriculture business, business practice, electronic trades, sheet metal and metal working trades, cabinetry and millwork trades, and automobile body works. The vocational classes were eventually relocated to the ATC facility for access by students from all LISD high school campuses. The medical magnet program was added in the early 1990s. An engineering magnet was piloted at Estacado, and the criminal justice magnet was added in 2007. Lubbock Independent School District, Estacado High School and Texas Tech University partnered in 2016 to form Estacado Early College High School.

King's Dominion:

The King's Dominion subdivision, across from Estacado High School, is the only new subdivision in East Lubbock since 1954. King's Dominion is a single-family, 1-story 1300 square foot minimum home with 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, and a car garage. To date, the subdivision has successfully constructed over 50 and counting affordable homes for families. The housing counseling and referral partners programs, along with down payment and closing cost assistance, are designed to facilitate housing development in North & East Lubbock.

Guadalupe Neighborhood:

Guadalupe is a suburban neighborhood located in Lubbock, TX. Most of the real estate is primarily made up of small to medium sized single-family homes. The residences in the Guadalupe Neighborhood were built between 1940 and 1969 and again between 1970 and 1999. In 1970, an F-5 tornado passed through Lubbock, affecting the Guadalupe Neighborhood. The neighborhood suffered tragic loss of life and hundreds of homes were leveled due to the destruction of the storm. The Guadalupe Neighborhood was comprised mostly of farmworkers and their extended families. The defining moment came when founder, Richard Lopez, merged with neighborhood residents and spearheaded the reconstruction efforts. Together, they began the arduous task of reconstructing hundreds of homes one at a time. The reconstruction was organized to ensure that neighborhood growth would improve to meet future efforts to stabilize families and small business entrepreneurs. The reconstruction efforts were catapulted in 1987 when Guadalupe Economic Services Corporation received its nonprofit status and became eligible to apply for federal funding. By 1998 the City of Lubbock declared the neighborhood a success and discontinued CDBG funding for distressed communities. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development would later adopt the reconstruction model as a best practice for the United States. The Guadalupe Neighborhood has more Mexican ancestry people living in it than nearly any neighborhood in America; 55% of the residents have Mexican ancestry.

Because of the city's role as an important center for economic activity, education, and the medical industry, Lubbock is affectionately known by the locals as Hub City, and this wealth overhistory has turned into a wealth of greatthings to do.

Lubbock hosts the biggest free festival in Texas every Independence Day – Fourth of July . It was also the birthplace and home of rock n roll legend Buddy Holly, a fact that the city is quite proud of.

But Lubbock is also proud of its history in other areas. Agriculture, World War II, and African American history all have museums or cultural centers here, and they are all well worth a visit.

Fun fact: Lubbock has the most music venues per capita of any city in Texas. So, you won't ever really be short of entertainment in the evenings. Here's a list of amazing things to do in Lubbock, TX. We've tried to include a range of activities for all interests.

Visit a vintage theater, for a classic night out

The Cactus Theater is described as the hidden gem of Lubbock, at least, in terms of entertainment. It's a funny description because it's been there since 1938! Today, the theater is a home for drama and dance productions, touring musical acts and more. And that old-timey vibe is still seeping through the floorboards.

Get a taste for the Great Outdoors of Texas

Buffalo Springs Lake is everything you might want from a comfortable GreatOutdoors adventure, even if only for a day.

Discover the story of WWII Gliders

Back during World War II, gliders were used to transport troops and supplies. The Silent Wings Museum is an awesome tribute to these amazing air vehicles, with a focus on the program that created and developed them. The museum is housed in the former tower and terminal building of Lubbock's airport during the 1950s, and 1960s.

Get out to the ranch, y'all

Located in the Texas Tech campus, The National Ranching Heritage Center is a place that's been frozen in time – in 19th Century America, to be exact.

Celebrate the achievements of the African-American Community

The Caviel Museum of African-American History is just one of the projects hosted by the Lubbock Roots Historical Arts Council. It's housed in a building that has its own legacy for the African American community – Alfred and Billie Caviel ran a pharmacy here. They were the first African Americans to own their own pharmacy.

Remember a Rock N' Roll Icon

One of America's most beloved icons of rock 'n roll was born in Lubbock. The Buddy Holly Center is noted for containing the famous Fender Stratocaster recovered from the airplane crash that took his life. Also on display are his iconic horn-rimmed glasses, which also survived the crash, and other personal items, guitars, and paraphernalia.

NUSA Board Nominees

Deanna O'Malley, Texarkana, AR

For the past 15 years, I've been fortunate to be part of such a meaningful effort. I've had the pleasure of meeting dedicated volunteers and community members who truly want to make a difference. The friends I've made at NUSA have taught me how to raise money for programs I am passionate about, facilitate meetings and community events, and understand how valuable sharing resources is to those who need them most. NUSA has taught me how to truly make a difference in my communities and those I serve. If chosen to serve on the board again, I would bring that same passion, enthusiasm, and desire that has been modeled to me. I would strive to make NUSA conferences even more valuable and impactful for members.

My passion for neighborhoods started at an early age while living in low-income housing as a little girl wanting to make them safe. I have been a member of NUSA since 2017. I was the volunteer coordinator for the NUSA Conference in Omaha and became a board member in 2018 at the NUSA Birmingham Conference serving in a leadership role my first year. I've led the awards committee for the last 3 years, and I've been the board president for the past two years.

Leading NUSA has been an honor and being able to represent neighborhoods across the nation has been rewarding. I look forward to continuing the work with NUSA by uplifting the mission and amplifying neighborhoods.

Dwight Pridgeon Little Rock, AR

I have been involved with Neighborhood USA (NUSA) since 2008, when I attended my first conference in Hampton, Virginia and have missed only one. I decided to run for the NUSA Board of Directors at the 2018 conference in Birmingham, Alabama. I like to continue my dedicated commitment to neighborhoods/residential involvement, youth engagement, and especially justice impacted individuals that are seeking a second chance in life. I would like to continue to be a great asset to the organization. I'm welcoming toward all people and engage all ages including underserved and disconnected young people. I'm currently the Vice President of NUSA executive committee, and Chair of our Resource Committee, and I like to continue these efforts to improve the mission statement of our GREAT organization. That's why I'm asking for your vote to return to NUSA Board of Directors. We have got MORE work to do.

Lindsey Pinkston-Issaquah, WA

I have always believed passionately in the power of community. Our neighborhoods are at the heart of the connections that have power to heal, build resilience, celebrate our cultures, and empower future generations. I serve as executive director of Highlands Council, a community building non-profit in Issaquah WA, where I plan events, engage volunteers, manage communications, write grant applications, mentor a youth board, and advocate for the community. When I attended my first NUSA conference a few years ago, I felt like "I found my people." I have valued the opportunity to share programs (bringing home seven awards on behalf of my community) and learn from all of you. I would be honored to serve on the NUSA board supporting neighborhoods, local governments, and organizations!

Reba Taylor Hill Indianapolis, IN

I bring my experience of promoting and working with neighborhood organizations. My love of working in neighborhoods coincides with the work of the NUSA Board since 2018 and the NUSA Organization to help them succeed and flourish in their initiatives by highlighting the work that neighborhoods are doing. I currently serve on the NUSA Exec Board and Co-Chair the Awards Committee

Rene Aguilera, Roseville, CA

As a Spanish-speaking native Chicano born and raised in my hometown of Roseville in Northern California, I will add to the regional balance and equitable representation of Hispanics as an experienced Neighborhood Board Member.

Robert Mike, Syracuse, NY

I would be an asset to the board because I am dedicated to improving the community that I live in. I adapt to change quicker than most and am not afraid to ask for help. I believe that to lift someone up you must get down there with them, accept them for who and where they are and not where you want them to be. We all have come from somewhere and have a story to tell. If you happen to fall, try to land on your back: if you can look up, you can get up.
